

Lady and the Tiger

Katie, an attractive professional woman, exits a dance club in the fashionable Georgetown section of Washington, D.C. A short time later she is found dead by two police officers. In the meanwhile, John Rink, a wealthy lawyer who lives in the suburbs of Washington, wakes up in a cheap hotel room with a strange woman and no memory of the night before. He leaves the woman abruptly and returns home. He doesn't even know her name. Police detective Gary Fulton is able to tie John to Katie the night of the murder and John cannot account for himself. The woman he abandoned in the hotel room is his alibi, and he doesn't know who she is. John becomes the number one suspect for the murder. More women are murdered and Detective Fulton is convinced that John is a vicious serial killer. However, Detective Fulton lacks sufficient evidence to arrest John. It is just a matter of time though. John's only hope of finding the real killer, is to find the woman he abandoned in the hotel room. He has only one, enigmatic clue to drive his own investigation, and that clue is something he can never escape.
